Dedicated to providing all location, expedition management and health and safety needs for film & TV, corporate challenges and expeditions around the world, however extreme.

Outdoor Skills for Life

Jungle, Desert, Arctic or Altitude, be ready for anything anywhere in the world and learn skills that will make you more comfortable, operate more safely and could save your life! Run by professional expedition and survival instructors, ex-military personnel and doctors.

S2Si offer training programmes for:

- Environment Training for Production Companies
- Hostile Training for Production Companies, TV & Film
- Expedition Training for Schools & Universities
- Bespoke Expedition Training for Individuals

What will I do?

Courses run from 4 hour taster sessions, 1 - 2 days intensive training, or week long bespoke courses. Some of the skills that you may learn include: proper use of technical kit, fire making, water purification, natural shelter building, wilderness first aid, survival diets, remote kitchens, base-camp layout and natural navigation. At S2Si we believe that skills are not learnt until they are tested so all our courses finish with a field exercise, encompassing all of the skills that you have learnt. Our experienced staff will then give feedback on your performance and deliver a presentation on how these skills are put into action around the world.

This is how professionals learn and train. Come and join them.
